

Ryan Davis is a senior at Howell Cheney Technical High School in Manchester, CT. His parents have been sanctioned bowlers for over 10 years. He bowled in a league several years ago, but he became involved in many other activities and had to stop bowling. During his high school years he was able to maintain high honors while being involved in multiple organizations. He was a senior captain of the soccer team and was a three-year varsity player on the baseball team. This year he was chosen as the all-academic male scholar athlete. He was a mentor to the incoming freshman during his senior year. Outside of school Ryan is involved with the Boy Scouts and American Legion baseball. He became an Eagle Scout with the Boy Scouts of America. Some of his interests and hobbies include playing sports, being outdoors, and building things. He has always liked working with his hands and being in the carpentry trade at Cheney has fueled his passion for wanting to become a carpenter. He will attend Central Connecticut State University and study Construction Management. He plans on establishing his own business, and eventually, build his own house that he and his family will be able to live in.
