

Connecticut State USBC Association 2020 Scholar of the Year Award

Savannah Carrier

My name is Savannah Carrier, I am 17 years old and I am from Burlington, Connecticut. I graduated from Lewis S. Mills High School. I plan to attend the University of South Florida as a Biomedical Sciences major and go onto Pharmacy School to receive my Pharm.D and my Masters in Business Administration.

One of my future ambitions is to work for a pharmaceutical company and undergo research to develop drugs for 'incurable' diseases and illnesses. My goal is to help as many people as possible that are suffering and provide help to those who have lost all hope in getting better.

In having an MBA, I'll be able to help pass laws and create ways to help those that can't pay the high prices of certain medications. In addition, provide modern medicine to areas that receive little health care, such as developing countries and lower income regions. I hope in college to continue volunteering my free time, get involved in medical research and join many different organizations that provide for the community.
